The Marcellus Central School was located on Old Seneca Turnpike on Academy Green until a fire destroyed the school in the 1930s. Driver Middle School was opened in 1937 as part of Franklin Delano Roosevelt’s Public Works Project, and has gone through many transformations since. Recent additions include a new student dining room, gymnasium, classrooms and main offices. At Driver Middle School, we pride ourselves on embracing our rich traditions and history, while preparing our students for the future.

Driver Middle School offers a combination of challenging, age-appropriate academic curricula and a healthy choice of extracurricular activities. DMS students are encouraged to experiment and “try something new” every year.

Activities offered at DMS include:
